JIN Climate and Sustainability (Joint Implementation Network) is an international knowledge centre for research and consultancy on climate change policy, sustainability and energy. Over the years, JIN has conducted several policy advice projects to support policy decision making at subnational, national and international levels. JIN has become a regular advisor to the government of the Netherlands, the European Commission, UN bodies such as UNDP and UNEP, and the UNFCCC secretariat.

JIN publishes the JIQ Magazine (Joint Implementation Quarterly) with subscribers in the fields of policy makers, science, non-governmental organisations and business in 138 countries. JIN is an officially accredited international non-governmental organisation with the UNFCCC.
